Speaker’s Synopsis: Jaeeun Kim will talk about her book Contested Embrace: Transborder Membership Politics in Twentieth-Century Korea. Her book, which examines the complex relationships among the states in the Korean peninsula, colonial-era Korean migrants to Japan and northeast China, and their descendants, and the states in which they have resided over the course of the twentieth century, offers new insights into the history of the Korean diaspora and the global network of Korean migration. Kim’s research focuses on the social, cultural, and political dimensions of transnational Korea, and she is particularly interested in the role of migration and enslavement in shaping Korea’s modern history. Kim’s book provides a detailed account of the ways in which Korean migrants have shaped the political and social landscape of Korea, and it also highlights the importance of transnational perspectives in understanding the history of Korea and its diaspora.
CONTESTED EMBRACE: TRANSBORDER MEMBERSHIP POLITICS IN TWENTIETH-CENTURY KOREA
Professor Jaeeun Kim, Assistant Professor of Sociology and Korea Foundation Assistant Professor of Korean Studies
Jaeeun Kim is Assistant Professor of Sociology at UM. She is a political sociologist and law and society scholar interested in race/ethnicity/nationalism and international migration, citizenship, and globalization. She received her Ph.D. degree from UCLA, was a postdoctoral fellow at Princeton and Stanford, and a former member at the Institute for Advanced Study. Her book, Contested Embrace: Transborder Membership Politics in Twentieth-Century Korea (Stanford University Press, 2016), won multiple book awards from the American Sociological Association, the Social Science History Association, and the Association for Asian Studies.
Speaker’s Synopsis: Jaeeun Kim will talk about her book Contested Embrace: Transborder Membership Politics in Twentieth-Century Korea. Contested Embrace is a comparative, historical, and ethnographic study of the complex relationships among the states in the Korean peninsula, colonial-era Korean migrants to Japan and northeast China and their descendants, and the states in which they have resided over the course of the twentieth century. The talk will focus on Chapter 2 of the book, which examines the prolonged and vehement competition between North and South Korea over the allegiance of colonial-era Korean migrants who remained in Japan in the context of decolonization and the Cold War.

DIPLOMACY AND DISCORD: INTERNATIONAL POLITICS AROUND THE KOREAN PENINSULA
Professor John D. Ciorciari
John D. Ciorciari (Harvard AB, JD; Oxford MPhil, DPhil) is an associate professor at UM’s Ford School of Public Policy. He is the author of The Limits of Alignment (2010) and co-author of Hybrid Justice (2014). He has held fellowships at Stanford, the Asia Society and the Carnegie Corporation, and has been a term member of the Council on Foreign Relations. From 2004-07, he served as a policy official in the U.S. Treasury Department.
Speaker’s Synopsis: Prof. Ciorciari will focus on the complex and contentious international politics surrounding the two Koreas. He will review past efforts to achieve peace, reunification, and other objectives. He will explain the divergent interests of key regional players and discuss why progress has been so difficult to date. He will then turn to current diplomatic efforts led by the Trump administration, noting both pitfalls and prospects for positive change.

NUCLEAR TREATY VERIFICATION
Professor Sara A. Pozzi
Sara Pozzi is a Professor and the Graduate Program Chair at the Department of Nuclear and Radiological Sciences, UM. Her research interests include the development of new methods for nuclear materials detection, identification, and characterization for nuclear nonproliferation, nuclear material control and accountability, nuclear safeguards, and national security programs. Prof. Pozzi is the director of the Consortium for Verification Technology, a consortium of 12 universities and 9 national laboratories dedicated to the development of new technologies for nuclear treaty verification.
Speaker’s Synopsis: Since the discovery of fission, nuclear chain reactions, and nuclear weapons, preventing the spread of nuclear weapons has become a top priority for our nation and the world. Several international treaties have been put into place to curb the expansion of nuclear capabilities. Nevertheless, there are states that may be pursuing elements of an overt or covert nuclear weapons program. New science and technology developments are needed to verify the existing or proposed treaties in this area and to ensure that nuclear weapons are never used again.

The Koreas - More Than You Know
The split of the Korean peninsula into North and South occurred as the Japanese occupation ended in 1945; the split was further entrenched by the end of the Korean War in 1953. How have the two countries fared as the split approaches the 75-year point? This series will speak to the economic miracle that has led South Korea to become the world’s 11th largest economy with robust democratic institutions but also with challenges including stress among young people driven by its intensely competitive educational system. The North meanwhile languishes as one of the world’s most repressive societies with high emphasis on military capabilities. This series will shed light on the Korea’s, past and present, and will provide information to help us consider their future.

The First 2018-2019 Lecture Series
Thursday Morning
September 13 - October 18, 2018
www.alum.uchicago.edu • 773-794-3531
A Community Program of the Geriatrics Center
Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at the University of Michigan
Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at the University of Michigan presents

The Koreas - More Than You Know
September 13 - October 18, 2018

Time: 10:00 – 11:30 a.m.  (PLEASE NOTE: October 4 lecture starts at 9:30 a.m. and October 11 starts at 10:30 a.m.)

Location: Washtenaw Community College, Towsley Auditorium
Morris Lawrence Building
4800 E. Huron River Drive
Ann Arbor, MI 48105

Look for yellow signs: OLLI Event Here

Fee(s): $30 for the 6-lecture series or $10 per lecture
$20 for the Annual Membership Fee (effective from September 1, 2018 - August 31, 2019)

On-line registration is available or send registration form and payment to:

OLLI at U of M
2401 Plymouth Rd., Suite C
Ann Arbor, MI 48105

If you have questions:
Phone: 734-998-9351
Website: www.olli-umich.org
Email: olli.info@umich.edu

This lecture series was planned by Erica Dutton, Al Gourdji, Ginny Rezmierski, Norm Samuelson, Frances Schultz, JoAnn Socha, Katherine Woo, and Leo Shedden (chair).

- Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at the University of Michigan reserves the right to substitute speakers. The views expressed are those of the speaker and do not necessarily reflect those of the University of Michigan.
- Capacity is limited to the first 500 registrants.
- Lectures are cancelled whenever Ann Arbor Public Schools close due to severe weather.
- Call (734) 998-9351 or visit www.olli-umich.org to confirm cancellation of the day’s scheduled lecture.
- For more information about Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at the University of Michigan visit: http://www.olli-umich.org

REGISTRATION FORM:

NAME(S): ______________________________
FULL STREET ADDRESS: ______________________________
CITY/STATE/ZIP: ______________________________
EMAIL ADDRESS: ______________________________
PHONE #: ______________________________

Thursday Morning Lecture Series #1

- $20/person
- $30/person
- $10/daypass

Write check payable to: OLLI at U of M
Mail to: OLLI at U of M
(Also can pay in-person)
2401 Plymouth Rd., Suite C, Ann Arbor, MI 48105

September 13  MODERN KOREA: HISTORY AND EVENTS
Se-Mi Oh, Ph.D.
Se-Mi Oh is an Assistant Professor of Modern Korean History in the Department of Asian Languages and Cultures at the University of Michigan. She received her Ph.D. from Columbia University, and served as a post-doctoral fellow at the Korean Institute of Harvard University. Her research focuses on the architectural and urban practices of Colonial Seoul of the 1920s and 1930s and explores the relationship between space and history.

Speaker’s Synopsis: Introduction to Modern Korean History: As this lecture will be the first in the series, it will introduce important events in modern Korean history. Starting from the late nineteenth century, it will trace the tumultuous processes of Korea’s modernization, colonialism, war, division, nation building, industrialization, dissident movement, cultural development, and explore the entangled history of two Koreas from 1945 to the present day.

September 20  BUSINESS AND ECONOMY OF THE KOREAS
Jordan Siegel
Jordan Siegel is an Associate Professor of Strategy and is the Michael R. and Mary Kay Hallman Faculty Fellow at UM’s Ross School of Business. Professor Siegel is also a Research Fellow at the William Davidson Institute and an Associate-in-Research at the Harvard Korea Institute of the Harvard Asia Center. Professor Siegel specializes in the study of how companies gain competitive advantage through their global strategy.

Speaker’s Synopsis: Professor Siegel will address the economic and business aspects of South Korea and include some similar comments on North Korea. This will include the rapid rise of the South Korean business sector with associated data and reference to the educational and legal systems that support the business sector. He will explore how South Korea was able to gain and maintain economic advantages, especially in the technical sector.

September 27  PERSONAL STORIES OF NORTH KOREAN ESCAPEES
Mi Dong
Ms. Mi retired from Pfizer, and is currently the COO of miCore, Commissioner of Michigan Asian Pacific America Affairs Commission, Executive Director of the Korean American Cultural Center of Michigan, serves on the Board of Directors of Henry Ford Hospital/West Bloomfield, and the Board of Directors of the American Citizens for Justice. As a Korean-American, she is fluent in the Korean language and has been in attendance at escapee presentations and has had the opportunity to discuss their experiences with them.

Speaker’s Synopsis: Ms. Mi Dong will serve as moderator as we view four short video’s: An overview produced by the UN beginning with the division of the peninsula after WWII plus testimonials from three escapees as presented in TED Talks or YouTube settings. Ms. Mi Dong will provide added context and guide the Q/A discussion.

Join us for a Taste of Korea - light fare after the lecture on Sept. 27.

Join us for a complementary Taste of Korea - light fare after the lecture on September 27.
Osher Lifelong Learning Institute at the University of Michigan presents

The Koreas - More Than You Know
September 13 - October 18, 2018

Time:
10:00 – 11:30 a.m. (PLEASE NOTE: October 4 lecture starts at 9:30 a.m. and October 11 starts at 10:30 a.m.)

Location:
Washtenaw Community College, Towsley Auditorium
Morris Lawrence Building
4800 E. Huron River Drive
Ann Arbor, MI 48105

Look for yellow signs: OLLI Event Here

Fee(s):
$30 for the 6-lecture series or $10 per lecture
$20 for the Annual Membership Fee (effective from September 1, 2018 - August 31, 2019)

On-line registration is available or send registration form and payment to:
OLLI at U of M
2401 Plymouth Rd., Suite C
Ann Arbor, MI 48105

If you have questions:
Phone: 734-998-9351
Website: www.olli-umich.org
Email: olli.info@umich.edu

This lecture series was planned by Erica Dutton, Al Gourdji, Ginny Rezmierski, Norm Samuelson, Frances Schultz, JoAnn Socha, Katherine Woo, and Leo Shedden (chair).

OLLI Event Here

September 13
MODERN KOREA: HISTORY AND EVENTS
Se-Mi Oh, Ph.D.
Se-Mi Oh is an Assistant Professor of Modern Korean History in the Department of Asian Languages and Cultures at the University of Michigan. She received her Ph.D. from Columbia University, and served as a post-doctoral fellow at the Korean Institute of Harvard University. Her research focuses on the architectural and urban practices of Colonial Seoul of the 1920s and 1930s and explores the relationship between space and history.

Speaker’s Synopsis: Introduction to Modern Korean History: As this lecture will be the first in the series, it will introduce important events in modern Korean history. Starting from the late nineteenth century, it will trace the tumultuous processes of Korea’s modernization, colonialism, war, division, nation building, industrialization, dissident movement, cultural development, and explore the entangled history of two Koreas from 1945 to the present day.

September 20
BUSINESS AND ECONOMY OF THE KOREAS
Jordan Siegel
Jordan Siegel is an Associate Professor of Strategy and is the Michael R. and Mary Kay Hallman Faculty Fellow at UM’s Ross School of Business. Professor Siegel is also a Research Fellow at the William Davidson Institute and an Associate-in-Research at the Harvard Korea Institute of the Harvard Asia Center. Professor Siegel specializes in the study of how companies gain competitive advantage through their global strategy.

Speaker’s Synopsis: Professor Siegel will address the economic and business aspects of South Korea and include some similar comments on North Korea. This will include the rapid rise of the South Korean business sector with associated data and reference to the educational and legal systems that support the business sector. He will explore how South Korea was able to gain and maintain economic advantages, especially in the technical sector.

September 27
PERSONAL STORIES OF NORTH KOREAN ESCAPEES
Mi Dong
Ms. Mi retired from Pfizer, and is currently the COO of miCore, Commissioner of Michigan Asian Pacific America Affairs Commission, Executive Director of the Korean American Cultural Center of Michigan, serves on the Board of Directors of Henry Ford Hospital/West Bloomfield, and the Board of Directors of the American Citizens for Justice. As a Korean-American, she is fluent in the Korean language and has been in attendance at escapee presentations and has had the opportunity to discuss their experiences with them.

Speaker’s Synopsis: Ms. Mi Dong will serve as moderator as we view four short video's: An overview produced by the UN beginning with the division of the peninsula after WWII plus testimonials from three escapees added context and guide the Q/A discussion.

Email: olli.info@umich.edu
Website: www.olli-umich.org

Join us for a Taste of Korea - light fare after the lecture on Sept. 27.
CONTESTED EMBRACE: TRANSBORDER MEMBERSHIP POLITICS IN TWENTIETH-CENTURY KOREA
Professor Jaeeun Kim, Assistant Professor of Sociology and Korea Foundation Assistant Professor of Korean Studies
Jaeeun Kim is Assistant Professor of Sociology at UM. She is a political sociologist and law and society scholar interested in race/ethnicity/nationalism and international migration, citizenship, and globalization. She received her Ph.D. degree from UCLA, was a postdoctoral fellow at Princeton and Stanford, and a former member at the Institute for Advanced Study. Her book, Contested Embrace: Transborder Membership Politics in Twentieth-Century Korea (Stanford University Press, 2016), won multiple book awards from the American Sociological Association, the Social Science History Association, and the Association for Asian Studies.

Speaker’s Synopsis: Jaeeun Kim will talk about her book Contested Embrace: Transborder Membership Politics in Twentieth-Century Korea. Contested Embrace is a comparative, historical, and ethnographic study of the complex relationships among the states in the Korean peninsula, colonial-era Korean migrants to Japan and northeast China and their descendants, and the states in which they have resided over the course of the twentieth century. The talk will focus on Chapter 2 of the book, which examines the prolonged and vehement competition between North and South Korea over the allegiance of colonial-era Korean migrants who remained in Japan in the context of decolonization and the Cold War.

DIPLOMACY AND DISCORD: INTERNATIONAL POLITICS AROUND THE KOREAN PENINSULA
Professor John D. Ciorciari
John D. Ciorciari (Harvard AB, JD; Oxford MPhil, DPhil) is an associate professor at UM’s Ford School of Public Policy. He is the author of The Limits of Alignment (2010) and co-author of Hybrid Justice (2014). He has held fellowships at Stanford, the Asia Society and the Carnegie Corporation, and has been a term member of the Council on Foreign Relations. From 2004-07, he served as a policy official in the U.S. Treasury Department.

Speaker’s Synopsis: Prof. Ciorciari will focus on the complex and contentious international politics surrounding the two Koreas. He will review past efforts to achieve peace, reunification, and other objectives. He will explain the divergent interests of key regional players and discuss why progress has been so difficult to date. He will then turn to current diplomatic efforts led by the Trump administration, noting both pitfalls and prospects for positive change.

NUCLEAR TREATY VERIFICATION
Professor Sara A. Pozzi
Sara Pozzi is a Professor and the Graduate Program Chair at the Department of Nuclear and Radiological Sciences, UM. Her research interests include the development of new methods for nuclear materials detection, identification, and characterization for nuclear nonproliferation, nuclear material control and accountability, nuclear safeguards, and national security programs. Prof. Pozzi is the director of the Consortium for Verification Technology, a consortium of 12 universities and 9 national laboratories dedicated to the development of new technologies for nuclear treaty verification.

Speaker’s Synopsis: Since the discovery of fission, nuclear chain reactions, and nuclear weapons, preventing the spread of nuclear weapons has become a top priority for our nation and the world. Several international treaties have been put into place to curb the expansion of nuclear capabilities. Nevertheless, there are states that may be pursuing elements of an overt or covert nuclear weapons program. New science and technology developments are needed to verify the existing or proposed treaties in this area and to ensure that nuclear weapons are never used again.

The Koreas - More Than You Know
The split of the Korean peninsula into North and South occurred as the Japanese occupation ended in 1945; the split was further entrenched by the end of the Korean War in 1953. How have the two countries fared as the split approaches the 75-year point? This series will speak to the economic miracle that has led South Korea to become the world’s 11th largest economy with robust democratic institutions but also with challenges including stress among young people driven by its intensely competitive educational system. The North meanwhile languishes as one of the world’s most repressive societies with high emphasis on military capabilities. This series will shed light on the Korea’s, past and present, and will provide information to help us consider their future.
Speaker's Synopsis: Prof. Ciorciari will focus on the complex and contentious area and to ensure that nuclear weapons are never used again.

The Koreas - More Than You Know

The First 2018-2019 Thursday Morning Lecture Series

October 18

John D. Ciorciari (Harvard AB, JD; Oxford MPhil, DPhil) is an associate professor at UM's Ford School of Public Policy. He is the author of DIPLOMACY AND DISCORD: INTERNATIONAL POLITICS AROUND THE KOREAN PENINSULA and THE LIMITS OF ALIGNMENT: THE STATE, SOCIETY, AND NATIONALISM IN THE AGE OF DECOLONIZATION. He is also the author of Transborder Membership Politics in Twentieth-Century Korea (Princeton University Press, 2010)

Jaeeun Kim is Assistant Professor of Sociology at UM. She is a political sociologist and law professor with training in international relations and comparative, historical, and ethnographic study of the complex relationships among the states in the Korean peninsula, colonial-era Korean migrants to Japan and northeast Asia. Her book, Contested Embrace: Transborder Membership Politics in Twentieth-Century Korea, was a postdoctoral fellow at Princeton and Stanford, and a former member at the Institute for Advanced Study. Her book, Hybrid Justice, was published by Fordham University Press in 2014. He has held fellowships at Stanford, the Asia Society and the Carnegie Corporation, and has been a term member of the Council on Foreign Relations. He is also the author of Hybrid Justice: Transborder Membership Politics in Twentieth-Century Korea (Stanford University Press, 2016), won multiple book awards from the American Sociological Association, the Social Science History Association, and the Association for Asian Studies.

Professor Sara A. Pozzi is a Professor and the Graduate Program Chair at the Department of Nuclear Engineering and Radiological Sciences, UM. Her research interests include the development of new technologies for nuclear treaty verification. She is an expert on the verification of nuclear weapons and nonproliferation issues.

Sara Pozzi is a Professor and the Graduate Program Chair at the Department of Nuclear Engineering and Radiological Sciences, UM. Her research interests include the development of new technologies for nuclear treaty verification.

Professor Sara A. Pozzi is a Professor and the Graduate Program Chair at the Department of Nuclear Engineering and Radiological Sciences, UM. Her research interests include the development of new technologies for nuclear treaty verification.